The Colorado 200: 2014

The larger firms in Colorado continued to do their back-and-forth shuffle this year — four additions here, three lateral transfers there — but things largely remain the same within the top 25 firms on our Colorado 200: 2014 list. Local experts say that Denver has been somewhat immune to the topsy-turvy market some other areas of the country are experiencing, but that change is likely on the horizon. For now, a few firms — particularly those who specialize in oil and gas or intellectual property — are riding the high this year after adding large groups of attorneys. Hogan Lovells is this year's top grower by adding 22 attorneys, but Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck and Wheeler Trigg O'Donnell aren't too far behind by adding 13 attorneys each.
